Constructed 1881

Architect/Engineer/Builder: Charles C. Bartlett

1881: Constructed at a cost of $50,000. C. C. Bartlett Company, general merchandise, shipping, and commission. Two stories, with two bay windows, and built of sandstone. Built in the Federal Style, it was the largest building in Port Townsend at the time that it was built.

1885: Attorneys also had offices in the building.

Later tenants included:

Various dentists

Frank A. Bartlett with Gents Furnishings

Port Townsend Mercantile

Bowling alley

Clothing emporium

Drug store

Shoe store

And a dry goods store

1980s: Jean's House of Travel and Holly's Flowers.

1992: Extensive restoration returned the building to an appearance similar to the original. The second floor was a rabbit warren of small apartments until this time. The windows on the second floor are equipped with the original cast iron shutters on the inside.
